GP Revision Lesson: Identifying Question Types

JC 1 and JC 2

There are 6 ways GP essay questions can be asked, and if you can identify them, you'll instantly know how to approach each one. Indigo has developed a proven method for every type, so you'll save precious planning time and know exactly which question to choose.
The tricky part? Question types can be worded so differently that most students miss them.

In this lesson, we'll teach you how to spot them with ease. Once you can identify the type, all that's left is to apply the approach we've taught you to structure winning arguments.

Materials will be included in this session

1. Value
- Diagnosis: About the desirability, importance, relevance, or significance of some entity or about it having a place or a point in the world.
- Prescription: Map the general, fixed functions of the entity in question to various, specific contexts i

Task 1: Diagnosis
- Underline the T(opic), then tick in T if it is familiar and cross if it is unfamiliar.
- Using the VIPERJ diagnosis notes, identify the Polarity, then fill the letter in I(ssue).
- Underline any C(omplication), then tick in C if it is familiar and cross if it is unfamiliar.

Academic Principal Seminar: How to Use Your Upper Sec Years Wisely

As you approach the end of your Upper Secondary years, you may start to feel ready to set aside your Secondary school knowledge and advance to Junior College. However, this is just one of the many common pitfalls faced by IP students transitioning into the next academic stage. In this seminar, learn how to avoid the IP complacency trap, familiarise yourself with the expectations of the End-of-Year Exams, and reverse engineer the A-Level exams to set yourself up for JC success.
